Looking for work? Read Maria's tips about how to stand out in the crowd at job fairs!

At Daily Work we love to help people find jobs, and the key to our success is having an effective partnership with each job seeker. Telling job seekers about job fairs is one a great way for them to do some job seeking on their own.

Going to a job fair for the first time might be a bit intimidating, and many job seekers have questions such as: What do I do? How do I dress? How do I make an impression on the employers? What kind of questions do I ask? How do I get ready before the job fair? What do I do after?
